THE DEATH OF A. M. EDWARDS.

Prominent Educator Died In Boston.

Funeral at Summer Home,
Bethel, Saturday July 23rd.

The death of Ayers Mason Edwards, formerly superintendent of schools at Lewiston, comes as a sudden shock and a severe sorrow to a large group of former Lewiston friends and relatives, who appreciate his remarkable ability and his great worth as a man.

Mr. Edwards was taken ill about 10 days ago, at his summer home in Bethel, and with his wife and son went to Boston to consult physicians. His trouble was diagnosed as appendicitis and on Friday he submitted to a surgical operation in a Boston hospital. Pneumonia developed and death resulted at 7 o'clock, Thursday morning.

Mr. Edwards was a prominent educator and through his associations with leading book publishing houses had become an authority on book publications, having for years been with Ginn & Co. and MacMillan Co., both in New York and New England, respectively.

Mr. Edwards was born, Jan. 12, 1857, at Bethel. His father was Col. Clark S. Edwards, who enlisted at the opening of the war as Captain of Co. I, of the Fifth Maine Regiment and who became its colonel, renowned through the armies of Maine as "the fighting colonel of the old Fifth." At the battle of Gaines' Mill, Colonel Jackson was wounded and taken from the field and Lieut. Heath upon whom the command devolved was shot through the head and died instantly. The regiment fell under the command of Capt. Edwards, who carried it through engagements in the retreat from the Chickamauga and who, by his gallant behavior and remarkable bravery, was promoted to be lieutenant colonel, and later, upon the resignation of Col. Scammon, became colonel of the regiment. At the same time that Col. Edwards was promoted Capt. A. S. Daggett of Greene, who subsequently became the distinguished general in the regular army service, was promoted to be major. In 1895, Col. Edwards was nominated for governor of Maine by the democrats against Joseph R. Bodwell of Hallowell, Col. Edwards polling about 55,000 votes to Governor Bodwell's 65,000.

The ancestry of A. M. Edwards made him a very devoted student of the war, a very earnest democrat, while the scholarly attainments of his father were reflected in the son. Mr. Edwards graduated from the schools at Bethel and entered Bowdoin College and graduated in the class of 1880. Among the members of the class were Frederick O. Conant now of Portland, Walter L. Dana, an attorney at Kennebunk; Franklin Goulding then of Lewiston; George B. Faxon, a Portland banker; Henry A. Wing now of Lewiston.

Mr. Edwards taught school during his college course but his disposition was toward the administration of school work rather than toward teaching. Soon after graduation he came to Lewiston as principal of the grammar school and later was elected superintendent of the public schools. He was highly successful in his school work in Lewiston, retaining the esteem of everyone yet evincing a purpose to control the schools and direction along the lines which seemed best suited to his purposes to a degree that was remarkably progressive.

While in Lewiston he married Miss Lou Hamner, daughter of Lewiston's veteran teacher of singing in the public schools, herself a teacher and a local singer of more than local fame. Soon after their marriage, Mr. Edwards was called to the superintendency of the schools in Pittsfield, Mass., a position of more importance and of larger salary than Lewiston could afford. His departure from Lewiston was the source of great regret.

From Pittsfield he went to Syracuse, N. Y., where he was representative for Ginn & Co., publishers and later took a position with MacMillan Co., having been their representative in New England for a number of years holding this position at the time of his death.

His home was at Rittenburg Court, Cambridge, Mass. He was a member of the Masonic Fraternity, a member of the Episcopal church, and a member of many educational societies. He leaves a widow and son, Sumner Edwards who was graduated from Bowdoin college in June. He also leaves three brothers, one at Bethel and two in the West. Personally Mr. Edwards was a strong, positive character, gifted with a capacity for executive detail, with a strong business sense, and an indefatigable capacity for work. He was strict in his personal life, conservative in his views, strongly interested in his religious and moral life, given to keeping his own counsel, a firm and loyal friend, a charming conversationalist, generous and kind to everyone and a social citizen wherever he was placed. His death at the age of 53, removed him in the height of his usefulness.—Lewiston Journal.

AYERS MASON EDWARDS.

Second Son of Col. Clark S. and Maria Mason Edwards, born in Bethel, June 12, 1857, died in Boston, July 21, 1910.

He was one of the sons of Bethel, who by a highly successful and honorable career and by a virile character had honored his native town, and was loved and honored by his people in return. It is pleasant for us to remember that in his last hours his thoughts turned lovingly to the village which had been his boyhood home, in which he had hoped to spend his last years. It is with pleasure, mingled with our unhappy memory, that we recall the seasons in which he has made this the summer home of his family. Not only here among his

RECEPTION TO MR. AND MRS. BROSSAU.

Given By George Paquin At Gonya Hall.

Event Took Place Monday Evening and was very Pleasant.

A wedding reception to Mr. Henry Brosseau and his bride, who was Miss Eva Carey of Waterville, was given at Gonya Hall Monday evening by Mr. George Paquin and was largely attended. The hall was very tastefully decorated with palms and ferns and numerous electric fans made what would have been an extremely warm evening, very comfortable.

As the guests entered the hall they were presented with carnations by the Gonya twins, Jeanette and Bernette, the little Misses being dressed in white and looking so much alike that it was hard to tell one from the other.

While the guests were arriving, the Lafayette Orchestra of nine pieces rendered an excellent concert and also gave much pleasure by their playing for the order of dances that followed later in the evening.

Mrs. Brosseau, the bride, was very attractively gowned in mesaline silk of old blue, handsomely braided and of the princess effect. The handsome dresses of the other ladies present also added much to the beauty of the affair. Punch and other refreshments were served. The affair was delightfully informal and each one present seemed to be enjoying himself to the utmost. Mrs. Brosseau received a hearty welcome to the community and has already made many friends.

ACCIDENT AT WEST BETHEL.

What might have been a very serious accident occurred Tuesday A. M., at West Bethel when a can of denatured alcohol exploded in the printing department of Whitten and Dennison. The fire was quickly extinguished but Mr. H. N. Head was painfully but not seriously burned. The flames burst around his head, singeing his hair and eyebrows, but his hands and one leg were badly burned. All concerned were thankful it was no worse.

MAINE LIKES TAFT AND TAFT LIKES MAINE.

President Taft's visit to Maine was beneficial to the State and the President and everybody hopes he will come often as stay longer. He visited Bangor, Bar Harbor, Bangor and at Ellsworth was the guest of Senator Hale.

There were 2000 people at Bangor to hear his address and he declared Bangor to be one of the most beautiful cities he had ever visited. He spoke of the great men Maine had given to the country, mentioning Hannibal Hamlin, the associate and supporter of Lincoln; Chief Justice Peters; the late Congressman Boutelle "to whose energy and interest the American Navy to-day owes much." Townsend, Reed, Maine, Dingley, Frye and Hale.

"The truth is," said the president, "that you of Maine have exerted a great deal more influence in Congress than under ordinary circumstances you would have been entitled to—the reason for this, the ears and wisdom with which you have selected your Congressmen and Senators and the conservatism with which you have kept them in Congress until the country knew their influence and loved before their power."

The President then spoke of the life farms in Maine and said there was no reason why the young men of the State after studying agriculture, should not settle down right here at home and by the application of scientific principles become millionaires as the farmers of the West are becoming. He did not discuss politics at all on this trip.

Gov. Fernald, ex-Governors Cobb and Hill and Representatives Burleigh and Garvey were in the party which went by special train to Mt. Desert Ferry to meet Mr. Taft and escort him to Bangor, Monday. Pres. Taft reached at Bangor with A. H. Chittenden of Oa-

BUSINESS MEN'S LADIES' NIGHT.

First Event Complimen- tary To The Ladies

Since The New Club Rooms
Were Completed.

For the first time Monday evening, the gentlemen of the Rumford Business Men's Club opened their beautiful new Club rooms in an event complimentary to the ladies, and the first of many very pleasant social events which will doubtless be given by the club members in the coming years passes into history as one to be remembered with much pleasure.

The club rooms never looked more inviting and the liberal use of electric fans made a torrid evening very comfortable. In the reading room tables had been arranged for bridge while the reception hall had been prepared for dancing by the removal of the art squares and placing of the furniture about the sides of the hall.

An orchestra composed of Walter Rolfe, piano; F. J. Rigby, clarinet; Moritz, violin; C. J. Leary, cello, furnished fine music for the evening.

Carnations were provided for the guests and refreshments of ice cream and fancy crackers, punch, etc., were served during the evening. The affair was in all respects most pleasant and enjoyable.

The Committee of arrangements was Messrs. Theodore Hawley, E. L. Lovejoy, E. S. Kennard and E. A. Sheehy.

LOCAL HISTORY.

The Bridges Over the An- droscoggin at Bethel.

Incidental Memorandum—By Leonard B. Chapman.
Number 66.

The present bridge over the Androscoggin at Bethel is built of wood and of the pattern known as "truss bridge" and a "truss," the dictionary tells us "is a framed assemblage of timbers." There are numerous patterns for bridge and other kind of work where supports are wide apart. The structure at Bethel is supported by three pairs of worked granite, one upon each embankment of the river and one in the middle of the stream. The spans are each one hundred and fifty feet long and the bridge is sufficiently wide for two carriage ways. At the northerly end there is a wooden approach, some width and same height and constructed the same way as the main structure, a hundred feet long, one end of which rests upon the bridge pier, the other upon the land, or stone breastwork which is several feet lower than the end that rests upon the pier. Under this approach the water of the river flows only in high freshets. This feature of the approach does not add to the "charm" of the appearance of the main structure, but it furnishes an easy way to the two long spans. Under it, on having bay to secure on one of the islands of the river and those who have occasion to enter upon the lee of the stream in winter find easy and safe accommodations by passing under the approach from one side to the other.

The name of the person who made the design of the bridge does not live over in tradition. It may have been the plan of Thomas Holt, whose "beautiful design" Dr. Nathaniel T. True saw and noticed in the Bethel Courier. Had a tablet been placed upon the structure as in the custom now, the public would be wiser, therefore at this time.

small, who has a summer cottage there. Tuesday he spent an hour in West Bethel, making a few minutes speech.

RUNAWAY ACCI- DENT AT BETHEL.

Tuesday Morning. Mr. Wm. Lowe Injured.

Fortunate Escape From What Might Have Been Fatal Accident.

Tuesday morning about ten o'clock, as Mr. William Lowe was starting for the hay field, with a horse belonging to Bert Brown of Albany, he was a victim of what might have been a very serious runaway accident.

When about opposite the post office the horse was frightened by an automobile and soon became unmanageable, running down Main Street to the store of C. K. Fox. When nearly opposite Mr. Fox's store, Mr. Lowe either tried to jump from the wagon or was thrown and landed between the kicking horse and the wagon. The horse was guided toward the sidewalk and encountered another team which had just stopped in front of the store. This horse was knocked down, the other going completely over him, where he was stopped by Mr. Fox and others.

Mr. Lowe escaped with one rib broken and another fractured and a few scratches and bruises from what seemed to the onlookers, almost certain death. The horses were uninjured except for some scratches, but the wagon to which the runaway horse was hitched was badly damaged.

GRAND TRUNK STRIKE.

The Grand Trunk strike continues on the even tenor of its way with both sides still professing satisfaction with their respective positions. On the eastern division orders have been given out to accept all freight with the exception of perishable goods and cattle. The strikers continue to say that such progress as the road is making means that unless the rails are soon increased, business in the towns served by the road will be tied up.

Several attempts to derail trains have been made and have succeeded to a certain extent in some instances. The usual excursion trains were run Sunday, the down train in the morning being absent an hour late. The latest train on this division was last Sunday morning, when the early train due at 4:15 a. m. was 11 hours late. This was due to the train being derailed near Richmond, P. Q., by a misplaced switch which had evidently been tampered with. Only a portion of the train left the track and no one was injured.

The Grand Trunk officials have announced that all they want is protection for the men willing to work and they will do the rest.

HEART THRILLING GEMS.

"You gave on the way a pleasant smile,
And thought no more about it;
It cheered a life that was sad and wild,
That might have been wrecked without it.
And so for the smile and the fruitage
rare,
You will win reward, sometime, somewhere."
If little things are vexing you,
As down life's journey you pursue,
Don't worry.
Don't be down-hearted, blue nor glum,
Just take your trials as they come—E'en then you'll find your taking some,
Don't worry.

WHEN THE TIDE IS LOW.
Some time at eve, when the tide is low,
I shall slip my mooring and sail away,
With no response to a friendly hail
Of kindred craft in a busy bay,
In the silent hush of the twilight pale,
When the night stoops down to embrace the day,
And the voices call in the waters flow—
Some time at eve when the tide is low,
I shall slip my mooring and sail away
Through purple shadows that darkly trail
O'er the ebbing tide of the unknown sea,
I shall fare me away, with a dip of sail,
And a ripple of waters to tell the tale
Of a lonely voyage, sailing away
To mystic isles, where at anchor lay
The craft of those who have sailed before,
O'er the unknown sea to the unknown
shore,
A few who have watched me sail away,
Will miss my craft from the busy bay;
Some friendly barks that were anchored near,
Some loving souls that my heart held
dear,
In silent sorrow will drop a tear;
But I shall have peacefully furled my sail
In moorings sheltered from storm and gale,
And greeted the friends who have sailed before
O'er the unknown sea to the unknown
shore.

THE SHEAF OF RICHEST GRAIN.
He saw the ripe wheat waiting,
All golden in the sun,
And strong and stalwart reaper
Went by him, one by one,
"Oh could I reap in harvest!"
His heart made bitter cry;
"I can do nothing, nothing,
So weak, alas! am I."
At eve, a fainting traveler
Ran down beside his door—
A cup of cool, sweet water
To quench his thirst he bore,
And when, refreshed and strengthened,
The traveler went his way,
Upon the poor man's threshold
A golden sheaf of grain lay.
When came the Lord of harvest,
He cried: "O Master kind!
One sheaf have I to offer,
And that I did not bind;
I gave a cup of water
To one athirst and he Left at my door in going
The sheaf I offer thee."

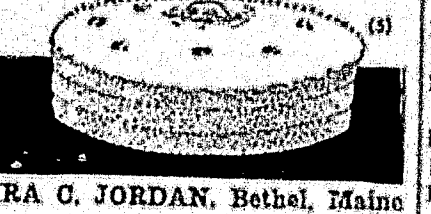

Then said the Lord of harvest,
"Well pleased with this am I;
One of my angels left it
With thee as he passed by.
Then mayest not join the reapers
Upon the harvest plain,
But whose helps a brother,
Blade sheaves of richest grain!"
—American Cultivator.

RECOMPENSE.
How many things are clear to us to-day
That yesterday we saw through mist of tears!
How many things are better than our fears—
What sunbeams through our self-wrought shadows play.
Not one fair, earnest hope is laid away
Within its sheaf of weary, wasted years,
But from the tangled grain above it
poers.
Fall soon, some blossom, redolent of May,
We stretch imploring hands to Heaven
and pray
That this, or that, be granted whilst we plead;
We turn with empty hands from prayer and say
"We are unheeded, forgotten, lost in deadly!"

IF WE KNEW.
If we knew the cares and crosses
Crowded round our neighbor's way;
If we knew the little losses,
Sorely grievous day by day,
Would we then so often chide him
For the lack of thrift and gain—
Heaving on his heart a shadow,
Leaving on our heart a stain!

If we knew that clouds above us,
Heard by gentle blessings there,
Would we turn away all trembling,
In our blind and weak despair!
Would we shrink from little shadows,
Lying on a dewy grass,
While 'tis only birds of Eden,
Just in mercy flying past!

If we knew the silent story,
Quivering through the heart of pain,
Would our womanhood dare doom them
Back to haunts of vice and shame!
Life has many a tangled crossing,
Joy has many a break of woe,
And the cheeks tear-washed are whit-
est,
This the blessed angels know.

Let us reach within our bosoms
For the key to other lives,
And with love to erring nature
Cherish good that still survives;
So that when our dirobed spirits
Soar to realms of light again,
We may say, dear Father, judge us
As we judge our fellowmen.

A SUSTAINING DIET.
These are the scorching days, when,
as somebody has said, men drop by the roadside as if the Day of Fire had dawned. They are fraught with danger to people whose systems are poorly sustained; and this leads us to say, in the interest of the less robust of our readers, that the full effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla is such as to suggest the propriety of calling this medicine something besides a blood purifier and tonic—say, a sustaining diet. It makes it much easier to bear the heat, assures refreshing sleep, and will without any doubt avert much sickness at this time of year.

Generous Means.

give his wife a gold present on their silver anniversary?
McElwenny—He wanted to kill two birds with one stone.
McElwenny—Two birds with one stone!

McElwenny—He wanted to insulate that his 25 years of married life seemed like 50 to him and he wanted his wife to praise him for his generosity.

ber of years yet to enjoy life and most interesting to him. There are but few left whom he knew personally, latives. He took the a. m. train Mon-

Cyril Benson the oldest man in Woodstock died at the home of his niece, Mrs. Hendrickson, July 19. He was born in Paris Dec. 31, 1813. His ancestors came from Wareham, Mass.,
and settled on a farm at North Paris,
then known as "The Harbor." Mr.
Benson became a farmer and has always been a resident near this little hamlet until some two years ago he came to Woodstock to reside with a niece. His wife, who was Charlotte Benson died some thirty years ago. Of their three children only one survives
Charles H. Benson, a Paris lawyer.
Though somewhat lame he was in fine health until the end came. His mind was perfectly clear and he delighted in telling stories of his younger days and he was certainly authority on the history of his neighborhood and the little village of North Paris for the past sixty years. The funeral was held on Thursday and the remains were taken to the family cemetery on the farm where he was born.

There is probably, no human faculty that is more in need of faithful and patient cultivation than the judgment, for there is none that has more difficulties to deal with or more difficulties to overcome. Nevertheless, there is, perhaps, none which receives less systematic discipline, or upon which people are generally less willing to expend labor and thought. They train their children's memory, exercise their powers of expression, school them in habits of industry, endurance, patience and self-control, but seldom discipline their judgment or teach them how to draw correct conclusions. That, they suppose, is something which time and experience will do for them, yet when they see what heavy opinions and ill-considered judgments are continually formed by other people, they might infer that some definite education in this respect was necessary for both young and old.

GOOD LANGUAGE.

A very valuable habit for a family to acquire is that of using pure and precise language. As a matter of fact, such an acquisition is desirable. There are dignity and grace in the very form of language correctly and concisely spoken. There is a charm in the speaker who is careful of his manner of speech. But far more important than the beauty of correct speech is the intellectual vigor which it stimulates and promotes. The use of good language encourages the habit of clear thinking. Speaking well and thinking well naturally go together. The intellectual process largely controls the manner of expression. This does not commend the use of stilted and pompous language, for that can be, and sometimes is, used to conceal the lack of thought. Our object is to discourage mazy, incoherent, scrappy and slangy speech. People who use such language have confused ideas and lack an appreciation of what is true and beautiful. There is nothing more serviceable in making good clean men and women out of children, than a household habit of clear and concise expression. It promotes not only thinking, but thoughtfulness, and thoughtfulness is one of the greatest virtues of a home. But make exact and proper speech one of the institutions of the home and it will remove from the heart many anxieties for the future of the child.

RENEFICIENT DIRT.

Scientifically considered, dirt is only matter out of place, and economically considered, it is of the utmost use to civilization. "What an easy life we should have if there were no dirt!" said a lady to her husband. "I shouldn't say that," replied the husband. "I should starve," replied the wife, and she spoke for hundreds of thousands of women the world over. It would be interesting to discover how many hours of wage-earning work which may be called cleaning—including washing, ironing, scrubbing, sweeping, dusting, polishing, cleaning—are done in one day among our 80,000,000 people. A single institution like the Boston public library gives 35,000 hours of work each year to scrubbing alone. In cities the work goes on day and night. No wonder the sweeping and dusting done in the homes of the town is an army of women with pans and cloths invade the shops and offices, where they fight with dirt literally from night till morning. They are in America trying to keep clean. Holland stands in the art. There the housewives scrub and sweep floors and windows and other outside light places, and one may even see a street-sweeper mowing down his companions and a brush on a pole. In fact, the Dutch are so particular about cleanliness that they have a law which requires that the windows of houses be washed at least once a year.

desire to be clean lies very deep in the noblest qualities of human nature. Wesley's famous saying: "Cleanliness is next to godliness," may be traced back hundreds of years to the wise teaching of the Jewish rabbi, Phinehas ben Jair: "The doctrines of religion are resolved into carefulness; carefulness into vigorousness; vigorousness into guilelessness; guilelessness into abstemiousness; abstemiousness into cleanliness; cleanliness into godliness."

COST OF MAINTAINING A TUBERCULOSIS SANATORIUM

In a preliminary bulletin on the cost of maintaining a tuberculosis sanatorium, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis announces today that the average cost per patient per day in thirty well-located sanatoria scattered in all parts of the United States is $1.40. These institutions represent an expenditure of over $1,000,000 and over $15,000 daily of treatment given each year. The bulletin, which is part of an extensive study the National Association is making for its bureau of information, points out how the country could save annually at least $100,000,000, if the indigent consumptives were properly segregated.

It was found that the food cost in most institutions represented one-third of the annual expenditures. The average daily food cost per patient was $0.44. The expenditures for the salaries and wages represented nearly another third, being $0.45 per day per patient out of a total of $1.60. The fuel, oil and light cost was $0.20 per capita per day or about one-eighth of the total cost.

The daily cost in the several institutions ranged all the way from $0.34 to $1.75. In the far West and Southwest, as in Colorado and New Mexico and California the cost was higher than in the East. In New York and New England, being $0.25 per patient as against $1.75.

The total expenditures of the thirty institutions were $1,363,233.33, while the total receipts from all sources were $1,543,233.74. More than 70 per cent of the receipts were received from public funds and private benefactions, only 23.8 per cent being from patients. Stated in another way, only 33 per cent of the total expenditures were received from patients, the remainder being made up from the other sources.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS.

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Rumford Falls Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys, if suffering from a lame, weak or aching back, that it is only a warning weakness when their troubles sets in they think it is some other ailment. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disease. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure those troubles as they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all the troubles which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Bethel and Rumford Falls people testify to permanent cures.

John M. Hudson, Rumford Falls, Me., says: "I am suffering from a lame back. As I believe they are the best kidney remedy on the market. About two years I was suffering from all sorts of kidney troubles. There were seven points in my back, the kidney system was very much inflamed and I was gradually losing flesh. I knew of other persons who had been cured of kidney complaints by Doan's Kidney Pills and decided to give them a trial. I purchased a box. In less than two months I was cured and I have had no return of my former trouble since."

HALTS RAISING OF MAINE.

Typographical Error in Law May Hold Up Work for a Year.

It is possible that a typographical error may delay for another year the raising of the battleship Maine from the mud of Havana harbor. If such a delay occurs it is more than likely that Representative Butler, of New York, will conclude that the fate is against him. For years Mr. Butler has kept alive the agitation for raising the wrecked vessel. He delivered many eloquent speeches on behalf of this cause, and at the last session of Congress his efforts met with success, an appropriation of $200,000 being authorized. This appropriation was made in two separate bills.

The first act, which was approved on May 9, carried an appropriation of $100,000, and provided that "the secretary of war and the chief of engineers are hereby authorized and directed to provide with all convenient speed for the raising or removal of the wreck of the battleship Maine from the harbor of Havana, Cuba, and for the proper interment of the bodies therein in Arlington cemetery."

Shortly after this passage the army engineers reported that $100,000 was not sufficient with which to make a proper start, and an item of $200,000 was inserted in the urgent deficiency bill. The clause making provision for this appropriation set forth that it should be expended for raising or removing the wreck of the Maine "in accordance with the provisions of the act approved May 10, 1910."

The act referred to was approved on May 9, and not May 10. It was clearly the intent of Congress to refer to the act of May 9, but the war department officials have decided that nothing can be done until the attorney general officially sets forth whether or not the $200,000 shall be considered as applying to the $100,000 already appropriated by the act of May 9. A palpable typographical error has been made, but the war department wants an opinion on it.

There is still another slight technical point which the attorney general has also been asked to decide. The officials want to know whether, under the terms of the act, they are merely to "provide" for the raising of the wreck and then report to Congress the plans decided upon and wait further authorization before beginning the work, or whether the act authorizes them to go ahead with the work.

In the near future the writer expects to give a more extended sketch of the Pond and its attractions.

Considerable complaint is heard of the way the spring water at the two drinking stands in the Park is being wasted. Doubtless the long spell of dry weather has had its effect upon the dew of the spring and this with the fact that children and some older as well, are allowed to play with the water and waste large quantities of it with the result that it has frequently happened at late that when people come to get water for drinking purposes, the supply had been needlessly wasted and they were obliged to do without or drink the city water, something that no one cares to do. If people would stop for a moment and consider the rights and privileges of others, we think they would not, neither would they allow their children, to foolishly waste the water needed by others for drinking purposes.

When Rumford people are in need of rain all it is necessary to do is to get the manager of the band to advertise a band concert. Every evening that an attempt is made to have a band concert has been made this season it has rained during the afternoon so that it has made it damp and uncomfortable for the audience, or it has rained so hard at the time that the concert has been postponed. Friday evening was no exception. The concert was given but the showers had made things so moist that it was necessary for most of those that attended to stand during the concert. Although several members of the band are away on vacation, the music rendered was first class and gave its usual satisfaction. The program as played was as follows:

March's Triumphal March.
Hungarian Comedy Overture.
Anybody Here Seen Kelly?
Gypsy Life.
Russek's Min No. 7.
Blue Danube Waltzes.

Tom Lavi, a Poland, received a fine of $1 and costs in the Municipal Court Thursday morning because of a disturbance that he created at John Wilmont's house Sunday afternoon. The State's witness were two Polish ladies that were there at the time and the evidence tended to show that Lavi had been indulging in beer rather freely, had knocked a flower pot and some other things on to the floor and had refused to leave the house when requested to do so. It was necessary to take the evidence through an interpreter and as the ladies insisted on giving very lengthy answers to questions that could have been answered by "yes" or "no" the hearing occupied a considerable part of the forenoon.

The Young Women's Conference at East Northfield, which was concluded July 13th, has been remarkably successful. The Rev. J. Stuart Holden of London, who, it was feared at first would be unable to speak, gave a strong series of talks toward the end of the Conference. The Rev. Omer Davies of Chicago, Miss Margaret Blatter of the Fitchburg Normal School, Rev. George S. Cody of Dorchester and Rev. John McDowell of Newark were the other principal speakers. Large delegations from girls' preparatory schools and various churches made a sum of delegates over 400. The Conference was entertained in the afternoon by base ball games, a grand field day, a tennis tournament and many drives. The tennis tournament was very close, being finally won by Miss Edith White of the New York City Mission, a former champion.

Almost Blew Him Up.

Everything was quiet in the little cigar store when the old farmer rushed in and brought his umbrella down on the showcase with a whack that almost broke the glass.

"You weasel-eyed shrimp!" he shouted. "What do you mean by selling me a loaded cigar? I lit it and blamed it a puff of flame didn't leap out and set my hair afire."

The clerk arose and rubbed his eyes.
"A loaded cigar?" he echoed in astonishment. "Why, my dear sir, we don't sell loaded cigars."

"Well you sold me this one because here are the pieces,"

And then the clerk had to laugh.
"You insisted upon paying 50 cents for a good cigar, didn't you?"

"Well, the 50-cent cigars always come in an air-proof celluloid tube and you must have lit the cigar without removing the tube. Here's another one without the tube. Smoke it on me, sir."

THERE are three different kinds of Ginger Ale:

Domestic,
Imported and
CLICQUOT CLUB

Those who have tried all three kinds, prefer Clicquot Club, because it lacks the burning sting in other ginger ales, caused by the red pepper, and because its quality and taste are undeniably superior.

Clicquot Club

Ginger Ale

The best fresh ginger and the best sugar (not saccharine) are used in Clicquot Club, with a dash of pure citric fruit flavor. The water (Clicquot

THE HOME

DEATH OF A. M. EDWARDS.

friends of his youth to his loss deeply felt, but whatever a life of wide activities had called him. For he had won everywhere strong affection, loyalty and esteem.

A successful man of affairs with scholarly tastes, cultivated in many directions, life held for him much of promise, many interests.

He was a loyal son of Bowdoin in which college he was graduated in the class of 1879, and the crowning happiness of his life must have come in the Commencement week of this year when he saw the graduates with high honors of his son, Mr. Sumner Edwards, and attended his own thirtieth class reunion.

Through he read law with Pecker and Herrick of Bethel and was admitted to the bar he never entered into the active practice of that profession, but first engaged in teaching and the superintendency of city schools, and then held a place of high responsibility in the publishing house of Olen & Co., and afterward became the New England representative of the MacMillan Co., a position which he held with constantly developing efficiency.

A life so allied with literary interests kept always alive his love of books and he particularly delighted to encourage that love in others. In children especially he was always ready to discuss and to foster love of reading and many cherished volumes in children's libraries are of double value as his gifts. Last winter upon hearing of the wish of the students of the upper rooms of the Grammar School to form a library he immediately responded to the effort by sending a large number of carefully chosen volumes which should be the foundation of the school library.

His marriage in August, 1885 to Miss Lou Sumner of Lewiston gave him a home life of uninterrupted happiness, blessed by a son whose boyhood and splendid young manhood have been a constantly increasing source of happiness and pride.

The funeral at his summer home in Bethel on Saturday, July 23rd, was attended by members of his class as well as by representatives of the MacMillan House. The services were conducted by Rev. J. H. Little of the Unitarian Church. The prayer was by Rev. W. C. Gault of the Congregational Church a brother of the Thos. D. Olen of the Lewiston Commandery, of Knights Templar, the Fifth Maine Regiment and Bethel Masses, as well as from a large number of relatives and friends.

Next had come to him after days of bereavement worthy the soldier bleed within his veins, days in which life with all its promises of happiness was cheerfully renounced and death faced, clear eyed and calm. The record of these last heroic days is one which fits as all is higher level. The loving thoughts and care, in the midst of mortal pain, for those whom he was leaving, the serenity and high faith with which he entered the Great Unknown, give us a clearer vision of the nobleness of this present life, a stronger hold upon that which is to come.

To the wife who has known years of kind love and devotion, to the son in whom his hopes so proudly and so warmly centered, in the sister and brothers who so deeply feel the loss of his own self and companionably, sympathetically every where gone, in the sister who will be incomparably upheld by a sense of thankfulness that they have so clearly shared this noble life, that there remains to them the inspiration of his example, the remembrance of his nobleness.

Utterly Wretched

Nervous Prostration Long Endured
Finally Found.
 J. H. Dickerson, manager of the gas engine department of the Fairbanks Co., returns from Washington county with a story that ought to set at rest all rumors to the effect that big game is not as plentiful in Maine.

According to Mr. Dickerson the town of Eastport was much wrought up Wednesday morning by the appearance on the shore of Passamaquoddy bay of a large cow moose that swam ashore a short distance above the town and proceeded to lie down on the beach for a rest.

The moose, and it was a large one, had come from no one knew where, but had evidently had a long swim, for it was thoroughly exhausted, and on leaving the water at once proceeded a short way up the sand and dropped down for a rest. Here it was discovered by some one of the employees of a large cannery factory near by, and in less time than it takes to tell it the whole town was on the scene, enjoying a rare sight. Some of the braver souls ventured near enough to pat the moose on the nose, but she was too far gone to resent the familiarity, and beyond a weak and futile kick with her foot did nothing.

Then the amateur photographers arrived and for the next hour they were busily engaged in getting different poses of the animal. Children were placed on its back, and all sorts of photos were obtained, which promises a deluge of picture postals as soon as the plates are developed and printed.

After the townspeople had enjoyed the curious sight for an hour or so they began to wonder what they would do with the animal, which had not recovered enough of its strength to take care of itself.

The game warden, as the only man familiar with the proper method of procedure in such cases, was telephoned and he sent back instructions to give it as good treatment as possible pending further action.

Accordingly a halter was procured and the cow moose was led to a nearby stable where it was rubbed down, given a warm blanket, and some tempting hay for dinner. The animal did not appear to resent the attention paid her, and was as docile and meek as could be. Probably it is the first moose that ever occupied a stable stall, or a rub down with a warm blanket to follow.

At last reports the moose was still enjoying her new quarters although she was a trifle more lively than when she first came out of the waters of Passamaquoddy bay. Portland Press.

Another long list of drownings marked the hot Sunday July 24. Eleven deaths in different parts of New England have been reported.

Of this number, the majority of the victims were enjoying a cooling plunge in lake or stream, but the treacherous waves were not so forgiving, claiming two deaths and still another was a young lady being her balance and falling from a rowboat. The list of victims follows:

William Murphy, 21 years, Brown University student, drowned in Randall's pond, Cranston, R. I., bathing.

J. L. Hunt, 31, Albany, Vt., drowned in Connecticut river at White River Junction, Vt., bathing.

Unknown man, drowned in truck at Lawrence, Mass. Relied into water while sleeping.

Emile Martin, 23, Auburn drowned in Lake Auburn, canoeing.

Amadeo Haral, aged 23, Auburn, drowned in Lake Auburn, canoeing.

Melvin Stuart, 18 months, Livermore Falls, Mass., fell off wharf.

Mary Hennessey, aged 21, Chelsea, Mass., drowned in Long Pond, Dracut, bathing.

Hippolyte Mesnacki, 25, Lowell, Mass., drowned in Long Pond, Dracut, bathing.

Leander Smith, 33, Charlestown, N. H., drowned in Connecticut river at Claremont, N. H., bathing.

John McCarry, 45, Boston, fell from pier in South Boston, while returning from sailing.

Edward Sullivan, 17, of Newbury, drowned while diving in Spy Pond, Andover.

The body of a colored man came ashore at Oysterhead Island, Portland. It is believed to be that of William H. Hilditch, one of two sailors who were drowned from the schooner Edward H. Winslow there two weeks ago.

PRINCE RUPERT, A MINING CENTRE.

There are few recorded instances of a railroad grade ever cutting a mineral vein of any value, so far the main line of the G. T. P. is no exception, but the district which it traverses is every day looming up into great and greater importance. The coast formation has never proved prolific of mineral wealth, but 100 miles from Prince Rupert the line enters a new field. A belt of mineralized rock, starting at the Portland Canal, running through the head waters of the Nass, crosses the Skeena River about the Kitseela Canyon and extends into the interior through the hills at Hazelton and the Babine and Hudson Bay mountains. The extent of the zone is unknown. Prospectors have only touched it in spots, but these spots have shown wealth incalculable. The immense area of this ore body can only be appreciated by those who have travelled over it. The future of the Portland Canal is an assured thing now. The same is known to exist on the Nass, while late last fall, discoveries were made in the vicinity of the Kitseela Canyon, which when developed and explored farther, will no doubt show very considerable ore body. These discoveries were made too late in the season to prove much more than that ore of good quality existed in the district, covering considerable area. Silver, lead and copper are the chief minerals found; but all ores in the district carry gold values, roughly speaking of from $1 to $40. Some even go higher than this.

At Hazelton, 150 miles from Prince Rupert, and on the line of the G. T. P. railway, the existence of a magnificent ore has been demonstrated by the strike on the Silver Cap, a property on Nine Mile Mountain. Ninety six inches of solid steel galena ore is surely sufficient assurance that Nine Mile at least will be productive of much wealth. Work on the Libby group, owned by James Cronin of Spokane, has progressed most favorably all winter. A tunnel of 325 feet has revealed a cross vein, which had itself attained run to tap the main vein, which was 2 feet across. This tunnel was being expected to be reached at 400 feet.

On Hudson Bay Mountain, which lies just across the Bulkley valley from the Babine range, prospects have been struck and developed to the shipping point. The lakeview group, overlooking the railroad and only six miles distant from it, shows rich copper and free gold. This likewise is a silver-laden property. Five tons of galena ore were shipped from the Coronado group which gave smelter returns of $100 per ton in gold, silver and lead. This was five years ago. With the shipping facilities the railroad will give, it is estimated by conservative mining men that much of this ore can be landed at the smelter at Prince Rupert for a cost of $5 per ton, approximately. It only requires the completion of the railroad to throw open a mining country of immense possibilities.—Prince Rupert Optimist.

SHEEP AND SWINE TRANSPORTED FREE TO FAIRS.

Announcement has recently been made by the Maine Central Railroad that during the present year sheep and swine will be transported to and from the several state fairs free of all expense. This is quite a radical change in the arrangement for transportation of stock to fairs. For many years exhibitors of these two kinds of live stock have been obliged to pay charges one way, while horses and cattle have been carried both ways without expense. Exhibitors of sheep and swine will undoubtedly appreciate this courtesy extended to them as the part of the railroad, and the exhibits at the different fairs will naturally be increased on account of the change.

There is no secret process in the manufacture of Carpenter-Morley Roofing. It is made from long three wool felt, treated with genuine Natural Asphalt. It is free from Coal Tar, Candles Tar or chemical products of any kind. This roofing is fully guaranteed by the manufacturers. Ask Hastings Bros. to see samples.

One Fellow's Finish.

 "Possibly," replied the young author, with a rather sickly smile. "All mine have a sad ending—they go into the waste basket." —Yale Record.

DEDICATION OF MONUMENT AT CANTON.

The dedication and unveiling of the soldiers' monument, which is to be erected in the village square at Canton, will take place about the middle of August. The exact date will be announced later. The affair will be under the auspices of John A. Hodge Post and Relief Corps of Canton. Congressman John P. Sway will be one of the speakers of the day and Rev. J. H. Little of Bethel will deliver an address. It is also expected that Gov. Fernald will be present.

A picnic dinner will be held, hot coffee being furnished to all. A cordial invitation is extended to every one and a special invitation to all old soldiers and the Posts and Relief Corps of Buckfield, North Turner, Rumford and Livermore Falls, to assist in making this a notable occasion in the history of Canton.

TELEPHONE IMPROVEMENTS AT RUMFORD.

The Maine Telephone and Telegraph Company is making extensive improvements to its cable system here in Rumford. A new 60 pair cable has been hung from the Central Office to the further junction of Prospect and Crescent Avenues in Virginia and all open wire carrying local circuits has been removed from the pole line.

New poles have been set on Hartford and River Streets to accommodate two new cables, each carrying 180 pair of telephone conductors. The old line of poles on both streets will be removed, as well as the line on Canal Street. New cable will also be hung on Franklin Street and Main Avenue and cable capacity in Mexico will be doubled. Open wires will be taken down wherever possible and all poles painted. During the past year the company has been badly handicapped, owing to the fact that cable capacity was entirely in use, so that these new improvements, giving the company practically double the present capacity, will tend to greatly improve the service.

In this connection, it might be well to understand that rights of location for poles asked by the company in its latest petition to the Selectmen, covers solely locations formerly granted to and controlled by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company. The Maine Telephone and Telegraph Co., having purchased the entire property of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. in this town, simply desires to have the locations of poles appear on the records in its own name.

HANOVER.

In response to a very cordial invitation twenty-seven members from Mahanooka Temple, P. E., went to Rumford, Thursday evening, July 21st, to visit Ocaillie Temple, and exemplify the degree work. A delicious banquet was served by the Rumford Sisters at 6:30 P. M., which was followed by a very pleasant evening. Ocaillie Temple has been organized but a few months but seems to be in a very flourishing condition and promises to become one of the best Temples in this vicinity. Their officers do good work and all the members show much interest in their Temple. The officers and degree staff of Mahanooka Temple received much praise for their fine work.

Sylvia Swan, of Bethel, was the guest of Gladys Russell during the past week. Master Ray Parker, of Gratton, is visiting his aunt, Mrs. S. P. Davis. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Emery and James Bartlett, of Bethel, took dinner at Indian Rock Camp, Sunday.

Two guests arrived at Indian Rock Camp, Saturday, for a few weeks' stay. A game of ball was played Saturday between the Ramfords and Hanovers, resulting in a score of 2 to 5 in favor of the Hanovers. It was a very interesting game, and some fine playing was witnessed.

From "La Patrie" June 21st 1910. The French Canadian now number two on the Directorate of the Grand Trunk Pacific. Mr. Alfred Russell, who was named by the Government to represent it at the time it was formed, and the Hon. Basil Dandurand, who was chosen at the last meeting of the Directors.

The combination of Mr. Dandurand is welcomed with much pleasure in railway circles, where his talents and ability will be valuable in the direction of the National Transcontinental Line.

We are now represented in the great Canadian Railways as we already have Hon. Senator Fargue on the Directorate of the G. T. P.

Another paragraph says—The Directors of the Grand Trunk Pacific have elected the Hon. Basil Dandurand one of their number. As is known, Mr. Alfred Russell, represents the Government on the Board already. "La Patrie" rejoices sincerely in the nomination of Mr. Dandurand.

SOUTH PARIS.

Harold Keene of West Bethel spent Saturday night and Sunday with relatives and friends in South Paris and Norway.

Mrs. G. N. Bais who has been taking care of Mrs. W. Stanley for the last seven weeks has returned to her home in Portland. Mrs. Stanley is very much better.

Mrs. Herbert Cole of Lynn, Mass., who has been visiting relatives and friends at Bryant's Pond, Norway and South Paris is now visiting in Auburn before returning to her home first of August.

The Cantata Queen Esther, will be given in New Hall, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, 27, 28 and 29. Mrs. Harvey L. Shaw of New York is in town for a vacation.

Miss Bertha Chapman of Portland is the guest of Mrs. Florence Chapman.

Frank P. Stornes of Shawnee, Oklahoma is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Stearns.

A special meeting of the South Paris Board of Trade was held Friday evening to consider the matter of securing a small industry which might locate here if conditions are favorable. There seems at present a fair prospect that the industry will come.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Douglass of Hopkinton, Mass., who are in Maine for a vacation of a week or two, were here the first of the week, coming from their home with an auto. They left South Paris, Wednesday afternoon for Umbagog Lake and vicinity.

DOG WITH PECULIAR TASTE.

Animal Didn't Like Anybody or Anything Except Birds' Nests and One Cat.

"I once knew a very eccentric dog," says a writer in Bailey's magazine. He was a real old English spaniel, with long body, short legs with great bones, grand head, jaws and teeth like a wolf's almost and long ears that would meet his nose. Poor fellow! His temper was certainly unamiable, but I think this was caused by the state of his health.

"He was a very curious animal, never showing much attachment to any one; he would bite his best friends on the least provocation. Nothing, though, offended him so much as being laughed at—that was an insult he never forgave. If you began to laugh at him he would growl in a very ominous manner and if you persisted in it would snap at you and give you such a bite that you would not care to try again.

"If you wished to please him you had to get a lot of old birds' nests and give them to him, one by one. He would carry them about for some time and then he would sit down and tear them to pieces. He was not particularly fond of going for a walk with any one, but if you got some nests and gave him one occasionally he would trot along with you as happily as possible.

"Another curious habit of his was that he would never get out of the way for any one. When he was trotting along he never moved from his line if he saw any one coming, but he would begin to growl and look so savage that people usually made haste out of his way. When he happened to be running down a hill he did not growl, but merely ran against people if they did not clear out—his great weight usually upsetting them, of which he took not the slightest notice.

"A great friendship arose between this dog and a cat that we had and it was very amusing to see them together. He would walk up to the cat and begin to lick her all over and then she would rub all around him, purring and seeming to be very fond of him, when all of a sudden she would stop, look up in his face and spit at him, at the same time giving him two or three sharp scratches, the only notice of which he took was to close his eyes so that they might not be hurt."

Statistical.
 Cholly—"Yes, it was a frightful accident. The doctah said I narrowly escaped having softening of the brain." Polly—"And how long did you escape it?"

Pete's Preference.
 Irishman (after waiting at the theater entrance for a long time on a cold night)—"Where is it? It's snowing and it's cold and I'm here."

Familiar.
 There is nothing new about the latest defalcation by a teller. "The simple old story of the $1,000 in some and later that would have stranded one too times longer."
